Suzanne Accetta (<http://www.suzanneaccetta.com>) is an internationally recognized watercolor artist. She has been drawing and painting professionally for over fifty years. Her interest in figures prompted her to study with famed portrait artist Everett Raymond Kinstler. She has been featured in American Artist Magazine, American Watercolor Weekly, and Women in Watercolor. Suzanne's work has appeared in exhibitions worldwide and is found in many private and corporate collections. She has won numerous awards, including from the American Watercolor Society, Southern Watercolor Society, Women in Watercolor International Exhibition, South Carolina National Exhibition, Pennsylvania National Exhibition, and Kentucky National Exhibition. As Calvin Goodman wrote in American Artist Magazine, "Accetta tries to employ some narrative elements in every painting. She is a keen student of faces and human anatomy. As a result, her work shows great empathy for her subjects."
